In his address to the graduating class Henry A. Tirrell, principal of the Academy, said:

Your parents and friends gather today to celebrate the completion of your Academy course. We congratulate you and wish you a prosperous future. We believe that there lies open to each one of you a useful and honorable life, if you will do your part. You have made a good start. Not one person in ten in the state of Connecticut has spent as much time in school as you have. I would remind you, in these last words of advice, that with your privileges go responsibilities, you must make good use of the talents intrusted to you. Your usefulness to the world will depend not so much on what you know as on the use that you make of your knowledge. We hope that you will continue to gain in knowledge; that you will acquire more and more of wisdom, which is greater than knowledge; that above all you will throughout your lives "hold fast to that which is good."

In behalf of the trustees of the Academy I have the pleasure of presenting you with your diplomas.

The valedictorian, Miss Margaret Learned Chapin, daughter of Mrs. Charles W. Chapin, of No. 75 Town street, delivered the valedictory address as follows:

Probably none of us are especially fond of last times. Whether or not we are glad to be leaving N. F. A., we are all sorry that today is the last time for us. But now that we are here, about to graduate from our dear old school, let us make use of this last time for a look both backward and forward: backward with gratitude, forward with hope and courage.

Parents and Friends: You have come here today to show your interest in us. Some of you, seeing us here, remember the time when you, yourselves, stood where we do now, facing the future with the hopes of youth. Others of you have toiled, sacrificed, denied yourselves, that your children may have opportunities today which were closed to you. We are all still thoughtful boys and girls; perhaps we have not hitherto fully appreciated your sacrifices, but now as we stand at this milestone in our lives, we bring to you our heartfelt gratitude for what you have done for us.

Mr. Leavens and Gentlemen of the Board of Trustees: It is not often that we have stopped to think how we came to have our school. But now that we are about to leave it, we realize how great a part you have played in our education.

We think with gratitude today of those many years ago founded by institutions; and we are glad of the chance to express our appreciation to you, their worthy successors.

Mr. Tirrell and Teachers: There is much in our hearts to be said to you today. We know that in the last four years we have not always been as studious and responsive to your efforts as we should have been. We remember how often we have complained at the hard lessons you gave us, and how sorely we must have tried your patience at times.

But as we begin to look back, we see that your methods were wiser than we ever realized, that in giving us hard lessons to learn, you were preparing us to learn the still harder lessons of life. And when in the future we look back on the days we spent here, we shall find that not so much the lessons we learned from our books as those we obtained from your kindly criticism, and wise counsel have stayed with us and influenced our lives. Thoughtless as we are, we begin to see how much you have done for us, and to try to thank you in a very imperfect way.

Classmates: Through four years spent together in our hearts we have come to know one another well to appreciate each other's comradeship. These four years have not been without their effects on us physically, mentally, and spiritually. Now it is time for us to take stock of ourselves, to see what we have gained from this institution and what we owe it in return. Soon we are going to leave it, and we go on to pursue our studies further and to form new student friendships and associations, others of us are to take up our life work immediately. But whatever it is that we are called to do, let us remember the high ideal of workmanship which our class motto sets before us. And as we say farewell to our Alma Mater, let us not only not only to our discrediting her, but to honor her in every way by doing only our very best.

Planting of the Ivy.
At the close of the graduating exercises in Slater hall the class gathered at the north end of the entrance steps to the Academy building where the planting of the class ivy took place. The ivy oration was delivered by Max Welner as follows:

Classmates: We are assembled here for no slight purpose. We are here to express in part the appreciation and gratitude that we feel toward this school of ours, where we have spent some of the happiest and most fruitful days, days that will never be forgotten.

We now plant this ivy, as a living testimonial of our love and devotion toward our dear old Alma Mater, May it flourish and cover this sacred walls until it forms an inviolable barrier to the corrosive action of the atmosphere, even as our loyalty shall create an everlasting support.

The Class Supper.
About 7 o'clock in the evening the class supper was held in the school gymnasium. The tables were very prettily decorated with flowers, and the class colors, silver and scarlet. The menu was as follows:

REV. FATHER JOHN H. BRODERICK ORDAINED THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

Although he has not planned any public observance of the anniversary, it has become known this week that Thursday, June 17th, Rev. John H. Broderick, pastor of St. Patrick's church, will complete 35 years in the priesthood.

Father Broderick was ordained at St. Bonaventure's Seminary, Allegany, N. Y. He is a native of Williamstown, one time four of his parents' five sons were priests of the diocese of Hartford.

REV. JOHN H. BRODERICK

two have since died, the other remaining priest being Father Broderick's youngest brother, Rev. James A. Broderick, pastor at Terryville.

For a time after his ordination Father Broderick served as a curate at St. Patrick's and for a long term of years he was the beloved pastor of All Hallows' church Moosup. Nearly eight years ago he was appointed rector of St. Patrick's, one of the most important parishes in the state, a half million dollar property entirely free from debt and with a church membership of about 4,000.

The fruits of Father Broderick's faithful and arduous labors are apparent in the careful upkeep of the parish property, but in the spiritual activity of the church, where the attendance at the 9 o'clock mass alone each Sunday runs from 2,000 to 2,200. The number of weekly and daily communions is constantly increasing, there is a flourishing parish school which maintains a high educational standard, the church societies are large and active.

During the early months of this year Father Broderick was seriously ill; but to the joy of his people he is fast regaining his health.

While his noting of his thirty-five years of labor as a revered and faithful priest will be marked merely by a modest and quiet commemoration of the day by means of a mass of thanksgiving, his people and many outside his parish and denomination will wish him many more years of successful ministry and the attainment of many more anniversaries.

It's easy to laugh at misfortune—when it visits the house next door.
